Dear Bill Adams,

12/31/90

Thanks for the info in your 12/27.

The first ref or which I know to the Red Bird airport is not in an article but in Richard Popkin's The Second Oswald, in a footnote attributed to Jones Harris.

Betrayal is a fake book, from beginning to end. It is probable that Morrow as well as Eddowes used Popkin as an unattributed source. Which is not uncommon.

I've forgotten Betrayal and didnot remember hearing from Koch that Roscoe White may have been patterned on William Gemelo in it.

I've not heard anything about Perry Russo in years. Perhaps he is dead but that Morrow says so need not mean he did die.

Thanks and best wishes,

Harold
